

Merton College RoPA - prospective students and applicants

ID.	Applications for and decisions about financial support, for example scholarships, bursaries and hardship funds. This includes communications that we send and receive to third parties that provide financial support.		Why we process it In order to make decisions about financial support and to ensure that the College is encouraging and supporting participation by talented people from all backgrounds.	Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled.	processing You have given your consent to the t processing for one or more specific	Details relating to lawful basis (where applicable)	Special category grounds	Special category- details of public interest etc (where appropriate)	Criminal conviction/ criminal allegation grounds	Criminal conviction/criminal allegation grounds (further information)
3	accommodation bookings we make (and if you book accommodation, details of who you would like us to contact in case of emergency). Information you provide to us or the University of Oxford during the application process,	from you We generate this data about you	To make admission decisions.	For six months after the open day. Successful applicants who enrol: Permanently. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled.	for the purposes of our or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms Processing is necessary in order to take steps
4	notes of your interview performance, feedback we provide you on your application, records of	from the University of Oxford	To make admissions decisions and inform you of the outcome.	Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled.	in order to take steps	should be offered places.

Sensitive data that you provide during the	We obtain this data	We process this data in order to consider whether to make reasonable adjustments (in the case of	Successful applicants who enrol:		The College has a legitimate interest in	Substantial public interest	Where the College processes special category application process, consisting of information		information about your disability and/or health), to implement them and for equality monitoring purposes.	for 6 years after the end of the academic year		assessing whether any individual poses an	under the UK Data	data for these purposes, the processing is		convictions/allegations data for these about your ethnicity, disabilities, special needs,			when you cease to be a registered student, bu		unacceptable safety risk.	Protection Act 2018	necessary for the prevention of a breach of its
	We obtain this data	In the case of criminal convictions, the College and University will use this data to consider and make	if you are awarded a scholarship this will	entering a contract			obligations under the Equality Act 2010 . The	Protection Act 2018	prevention of a breach of its obligations u from you	decisions about whether any conviction poses an unacceptable risk in the collegiate university environment		Di i			processing is necessary for reasons		health and safety law . The processing is convictions that you inform us about. Records of our decisions taking this information into			the College archive.	Processing is necessary for the purposes of our			of substantial public interest, namely that the College must comply with its statutory		necessary for reasons of substantial publi interest, namely that the College must co account.			Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after	or someone else's			obligations concerning equality and to make		with its statutory obligations concerning account			the end of the application cycle.	legitimate interests,			reasonable adjustments.		health and safety.
			,	except where			,		,
			Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12	overridden by your			The processing must be carried out without		The processing must be carried out witho months after the last date when you could	data protection rights			consent so as not to prejudice those purposes.		consent so as not to prejudice those purp
			have enrolled.	and freedoms Processing is necessary for compliance with a legal obligation
				icgai obligation
Your fee status (e.g. home, EU, or	We obtain this data	In order to determine the fees you are required to pay and to confirm that you will be able to meet the	Successful applicants who enrol:	Processing is necessary	Legislation determines to an extent the level of	f international) and associated information	from you	requirement to pay fees.	for 6 years after the end of the academic year		fees you are required to pay, based on your
	We obtain this data		when you cease to be a registered student, bu		country of residence. of your fees and funding information including			if you are awarded a scholarship this will	entering a contract your financial declaration, any supporting	parents).		remain on your record permanently as part of	Processing is necessary information you provide about funding (e.g. loans, grants, sponsorship and/or self-funding			the College archive.	for compliance with a resources, including copies of evidence you				legal obligation submit) and decisions that we make in light of			Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after	regar obligation that information.			the end of the application cycle.
			,
The evidence submitted by you or on your			Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 behalf may include financial information about			months after the last date when you could those assisting you financially, for example			have enrolled.
parents' bank statements.
We may also share this data with the
We may also share this data with the University. oniversity.
Pre-application communications with	We obtain this data	To answer queries that you may have about studying at the College.	Successful applicants who enrol:	Processing is necessary	The College has a legitimate interest in prospective students.	from you				receiving and responding to a range of queries
	We generate this data		when you cease to be a registered student, bu	at your request prior to	from prospective students. about you		if you are awarded a scholarship this will	entering a contract remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive.	Processing is necessary Harmon for the state of the sta	for the purposes of ou Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle.	or someone else's legitimate interests, the end of the application cycle.	except where Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12	overridden by your months after the last date when you could	data protection rights
			have enrolled.	and freedoms
1
Decords about whether to in the second secon	Wo obtain this data	We propose this data to decide who to invite for inter-	Suggestful applicants with a seed	Drocossing :	The College has a legitimete lettered by Records about whether to invite applicants for interview, including consideration of		We process this data to decide who to invite for interview.	Successful applicants who enrol:		The College has a legitimate interest in using appropriate data about academic interview, including consideration of	from the University of		for 6 years after the end of the academic year	for the purposes of our	appropriate data about academic interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information	from the University of Oxford	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu	for the purposes of our t or someone else's	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information	from the University of Oxford		for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu	for the purposes of our	appropriate data about academic
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu le if you are awarded a scholarship this will	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests,	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu ei fyou are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive.	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle.	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu is if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of our t or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit.	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-to-	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled.	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit.	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of our	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course.	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu lif you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicats who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of our	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you;	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out t contract with you; Processing is necessary is necessary is necessary or performance of out took and the processing is necessary is necessary is necessary is necessary in the processing in the p	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out t contract with you; Processing is necessary is necessary is necessary or performance of out took and the processing is necessary is necessary is necessary is necessary in the processing in the p	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name,	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive.	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name,	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive.	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle.	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University with students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as part of its reporting obligations under	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu le if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as part of its reporting obligations under	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background),test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University so that it has records of students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as part of its reporting obligations under	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University with students' entitlement to study. We also provide the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as part of its reporting obligations under	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent
interview, including consideration of contextual information (relating to information about your school performance, postcode and care background), test scores and marks for written work that we have requested. We will also hold copies of the tests and written work that you submit. We may assist students making visa applications before they arrive, and making visa extensions when they are on the course. This involves us taking copies of passports and visas, which we store electronically and share with the University with students' name, date of birth, passport number, course, fees paid & due for it to share this information with the Home Office/UK Visas and Immigration as part of its reporting obligations under	from the University of Oxford We generate this data about you We also obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We obtain this data from you We generate this data	The role of contextual admissions data is explained more fully on the University's website, but is taken into account when deciding whether to invite applicants for interview in addition to candidates who have met the usual departmental admissions criteria: https://www.ox.ac.uk/admissions/undergraduate/applying-tooxford/decisions/contextual-data?wssl=1	for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could have enrolled. Successful applicants who enrol: for 6 years after the end of the academic year when you cease to be a registered student, bu if you are awarded a scholarship this will remain on your record permanently as part of the College archive. Unsuccessful applicants: for 12 months after the end of the application cycle. Successful applicants who do not enrol: 12 months after the last date when you could	for the purposes of out or someone else's legitimate interests, except where overridden by your data protection rights and freedoms. Processing is necessary for performance of out contract with you; Processing is necessary for compliance with a	appropriate data about academic performance, and to take account of the context of academic achievement in order to decide who to invite for interview.	Explicit consent			